—“Never fear,” said Mr. Marquayat, solemnly, “never get married, my boy. Little do you know what an awful responsibility it is to uphold a wife.”

On the fifty eighth anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, which occurred on June 18, there were living fifty-nine men who were commissioned officers under Wellington in that battle.

In Paris they are having a much better time than writing. There are forty painters there who make at least $30,000 a year. Not five literary men have anywhere near so great an income.

—It was “darling George” when a bridal couple left Omaha; it was “dear George” at Chicago; at Detroit it was “George,” and when they reached Niagara Falls, “dear.”

A dark lady left a message of a telegram office while the operator went to dinner, heard some one “call” over the wires, and began shouting at the instrument: “De operator isn’t yet!” The noise ceased.

—Lawrence Barrett’s company for next season will be much the same as last year. Among its members will be Harry Merriam, J. V. Daily and Mrs. Josephine Craig, with William Seymour as stage manager.

The highest hotel east of the Mississippi is at Blowing Rock, Watauga county, N. C., it is 4,600 feet above the level of the sea. The boarders are on the front porch and in their conveyances with the man in the moon.

—What a meaning and unique expression was that of a young Irish girl who was rendering testimony against an individual in a New Orleans court not long since: “Arrah, sir,” said she, “I’m shure he never made his mother smile.” That is a lesson of unkindness in that single statement.

Alce and Lorraine do not Germanize as fast as the new rulers would like. There is not perhaps as much exhibition of spite and discontent on the part of the inhabitants as formerly, yet out of 38,000 young men who were liable this year for military service, only 11,781 presented themselves to the authorities.

The misfortune of crime has no more gloomy illustration than in the case of the slave who was killed by his master shot by the son, the mother dying and a brief months of grief and a broken heart, and now the murderer of his father a hopeless maniac. From happiness, affluence and respectability, to disgrace, misery, and worse than death.

A speculative Scotch gentleman, wanting to dispose of some land to attract purchase, printed the following placard: “Excellent sale of live stock, comprising not less than one hundred and forty thousand head, with an unlimited right of pasture.” The ingenious trick succeeded to win admiration, for his stock was bought at high prices.

The Superintendent of the New Orleans Mint is in Washington, making arrangements to commence operations, but, owing to the smallness of the Congressional appropriation, they will, for the present, be confined to assaying only. No assay work will be performed at that mint since June 26, 1861, when the Confederate authorities took possession of the property.

—A Saratoga correspondent writes: “What are the new Saratoga styles this year?” “Well, I had a young style, this afternoon. ‘Wealth’ has got it, and it itself this year—that is, no conquisitor styles like the Grecian bend or the grass-hopper walk. Perhaps the tulle tulle—the white tulle fever—is an epidemic.”

“The what fever?” I asked wonderingly. “With the white tulle fever. Don’t you see, Miss? And when you have a Panama hat twisted up and down, covered with white tulle?” “Yes,” I said, leaning forward and buring the end of my cigar into the crown of an old lady’s tulle. “And don’t you see that white tulle is worn in the neck and ear? she can easily breathe, muffling up her ears, and forming a dewy nest for her head to rest on. Don’t you see? Well, that is what I call an attack of white tulle, and they’ve all got it here this summer. They go bald, too. And then my young friend drew a long sigh at the reality of the sex, and because she did not also have a Panama hat all covered up in tulle.”

THE AMOUNT of National bank notes outstanding begins to show an increase. The aggregate now in circulation exceeds $350,000,000, as against $345,000,000 a short time ago.

DESPITE the heated term, the manufacture of presidential material goes on without interruption. Just now Chief Justice Waite and Secretary Bristow are the favorites in the Bohemian at Washington, while they propose to make Sherman and Glaser the Democratic standard bearers for 1876.

THE little newsboys are working vigorously these dull summer days to make a little pocket money. The city papers are sold to the boys at a low rate to enable them to make something. A nickel is a small matter to any one, and yet given to the newsboy often does much for the support of humble and needy homes.

THE Commissioners of the Freedman’s Bank are industriously putting out rose-colored promises, the depositors in the various cities of the South have very blue opinions on the subject. The colored people of Baltimore met in the first part of the week, and denounced the whole concern as a swindle. Of all the impositions by the Radical tricksters, this scheme for gobbling up the prudent day-laborer’s earnings was the most despicable and disheartening.

The Mississippi Outbreak.

Austin is the county seat of Tunica county, which stretches along the Mississippi for about fifty miles just below the Tennessee line. The county only has a population of 4,127, but the negroes in this, as in all the other counties of the Mississippi bottoms, outnumber the whites about ten to one.

The recent outbreak was the pure result of radical machinations. The partisan intrigues that have banded the blacks together for political purposes, and that have taught them to hate and fight those whose interest is their best interest—such movements emanating from the councils of the party in Washington, have resulted in the formation of political parties organized almost as race. The negro, led by adventurers that hold Federal commissions, has robbed and plundered sections of the South, until counter organizations have become necessary. It is not so in Georgia, but in counties like Tunica there seems to be no other remedy, for the evils of the times.

The recent trouble was in no respect political, it is true; but it arose out of that antagonism of race which the radical politicians selfishly created and have assiduously fostered. We have seen no account that justifies, or pretends to justify, the action of the savage hordes that demanded the life of a citizen for an unintentional deed done in self-defense. A conflict could only be destructive of the material interests of the white of Tunica county. It was an issue forced upon them, which they were compelled to meet; and the developments of radicalism are alone responsible for the appalling state of affairs. The appeals of the office holding Davenportians of Mississippi have produced a degree of inflammability, that the least spark, in districts like Tunica, fans into a devouring flame. Primarily, the dread responsibility lies at the doors of the authorities at Washington, who have permitted their minions to feed the dangerous fires up to a point that makes such outbreaks, not only possible, but probable.

Now that the spark of war has blown over, it will be well to inquire why Gov. Ames did not call for Federal troops? He was anxious enough to get them while a democratic victory was imminent at Vicksburg, but when two hundred white men were beheaded by a thousand infuriated blacks at Austin, he appeals to an ex-sheriff in Arkansas, and the people of Tennessee are compelled to come without warrant of law, to prevent a massacre of their friends and brothers. The call for help from Austin is that have left the reports that have come in.

WILL President Grant be good enough to state, at his earliest convenience, whether he intends to run a third time or not? Sitting on the fence these hot summer months is monotonous and fatiguing to the average man.

resolution, which was unanimously adopted:Whereas, at the last meeting of this class, just before the commencement in 1868, an agreement was entered into relative to a reunion of the class, and from time to time with reference thereto, to wit: About or during the commencement of 1878, andWhereas we, a few of the representatives of said class, are assembled together at this time, and are very anxious that said agreement should be carried out.Resolved, That the following members of said class be constituted a committee to make all suitable arrangements for said meeting, and that they be authorized to use such funds as the whole class, as many thereof as are possible, presents.Resolved further, That the selection of the place of meeting, and the date of said
